The "Sun's" Twaddle about Grant

NEW YORK, Aug 8—The Sun's Washington special, on the possible renomination of Grant by the Republicans, says the scheme requires delicate political engineering Money alone can furnish the driving power, and that money knowing ones aver to be forthcoming They point with pride to Mackey's oriental reception of Grant in Paris They say the silver and railroad kings of Nevada and California are alarmed They fancy that the labor reformers will despoil them of their wealth Mackey makes no secret of his fears and Stanford Crocker Haywood, Jones, Sharon and others are prepared to follow in his footsteps With Grant in the chair at the White House they think their accumulations would be secure, as no constitutional barriers would stand in his way when his friends were in danger He has frequently used the army without authority and would not scruple to do so again In a conversation in Virginia City last spring Mackey is reported to have said "I will give a million dollars to secure Grant the Republican nomination and another million to compass his election, and once in the White House I will give a million to keep him there." He added that this might seem strange talk, but he would put up the money knowing it to be a good investment A man ought to insure his house against fire Grant is the insurance company for the Pacific railroad-robbers, land grabbers and manipulators of mineral lands, and they are prepared to take large blocks of stock in him

Thomas Carlyle has written a letter protesting against the destruction of old London churches He thinks it a sinful piece of barbarism not religiously to preserve these churches as precious heir looms and says many of them are specimens of noble architecture the like of which they have no prospect of ever being able to produce in England again It is said there are only 13 churches in existence which date before the time of Charles II No less than 12 London churches have been destroyed in this age

What Defeated Hartzell

[From the Chicago Tribune]

The Democrats of the eighteenth (Cairo) district have thrown Hartzell overboard and Josh Allen Hartzell is serving his first term The cause of his defeat is said to be the resolution he introduced last session into the house against the payment of rebel claims This exasperated the old secesh element in that district who determined to cut his throat and nominate a man who will not commit an indiscretion or blunder of that sort The Democrats of the eighteenth district were the worst sort of copperheads during the war and have never been reconstructed They were as pro-slavery as the rebels of South Carolina or Mississippi They believe in state sovereignty and the right of secession They always liked the institution of slavery and would vote to-morrow to re-establish it They love Jeff Davis and would support him any day in preference to Sam Tilden They want the rebel claims paid, and their southern brethren ought to be compensated from the national treasury for the losses they sustained in their abortive attempts to dismember the union Such are the Democrats who fling Hartzell overboard for introducing that resolution into a Democratic house

Virginia's Lost Colony.

The discovery of a mound in North Carolina with a number of well preserved corpses of unknown nationality has revived a hope of Sir Walter Raleigh that some trace might yet be found of the famous Roanoke colony The remains and contents of the mound are undergoing careful examination and if it is possible to decide that they are the Roanoke colony—lost and found—no doubt it will be done It was in 1587 that the famous lost colony the subject of so much search speculation and romance, landed at Roanoke and formed a friendship with Manteo who was made Christian, a feudal baron as the Lord of Roanoke the first gentleman in America It was that colony that gave birth to Virginia Dare the first child born of English parents It was three years on account of war Spanish armada and home troubles before a ship with supplies and the governor of the colony Virginia Dare's grandfather, returned to Roanoke All that remained of the colony or Manteo and the friendly Indians to tell of its fate was the inscription "Croatan" on the bark of a tree

Bank of England Note Paper.

Since the existence of the Bank of England the paper for its notes has been made by the Portal family whose ancestor came over from Bordeaux in a barrel after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, bringing with him the art of making fine paper which like those of silk weaving and dyeing scarlet was up to that time unknown in England Except by burglary against which precautions are taken it is absolutely impossible to obtain a scrap of the beautifully water marked paper produced by the mill on the Test which gruff William Cobbett denounced as the foundation of England's fictitious prosperity Every piece of bank note paper is registered before it is removed from the frame an account is kept by a locked dial and every damaged note is accounted for before being ground up again into pulp

The Feeling in Washington.

[Letter to Cincinnati Commercial]

There is a feeling here shared by all Republicans whether in office or out that if the Democrats get the house this fall or rather retain what they already have it will be up hill work for the Republicans to carry the next presidential election With the house and senate in the hands of the enemy working together for a common purpose the Republicans will suffer from the disadvantages of the situation The senate is already gone —that is conceded [illegible] Democrats to have [illegible] March 4 [illegible] the house a struggle upon the result of which is supposed to hinge the presidential [illegible] of 1880 Should the Republicans fail to gain the house they will be handicapped to begin with and will go into the race of 1880 under discouraging circumstances

The [illegible] stand at the race track on the state fair grounds has been removed to the west end of the grand stand opposite the judges stand The intervening space between the grand stand and the one removed is 30 feet and this space will be roofed over By this arrangement 8 000 persons can be seated opposite the point of interest in all contests of speed—the come out point.

Says the Junction City Signal "The 20 000 sacks recently purchased by Washburne & Moore are already mostly disposed of and these gentlemen are compelled to lay in another supply in order more particularly to accommodate their neighbors than to meet their own demands, since 40 000 bushels is all their house will hold This house has for the last five years averaged about 40 000 on storage per year

As the regular north bound passenger train came into Junction City a few days since it was noticed that a freight car which was attached next to the tender had caught on fire by sparks from the smoke stack Upon nearing the depot the train was cut and the engine rushed rapidly on with the burning car to the tank situated in the lower part of town where the fire was soon extinguished yet not until considerable damage had been done to the car and the freight within it Should fire from similar causes get into grain fields now in this county it would unavoidably do thousands of dollars worth of damage

Some days since S B Eakin, Jr sheriff of Lane county was notified of the description of an Indian who had stolen a horse from a man residing in an adjoining county Yesterday Mr Eakin espied an Indian leaving town on horseback whom he judged to be his man He at once procured a horse and started in pursuit overtaking him about two miles south of town The Indian dismounted and fled to the brush, Mr Eakin following him on foot The Indian was carrying a Henry rifle and revolver and told Eakin to go back or he would shoot him Mr Eakin thought as the Indian had every advantage that he had better take his advice No sooner had he turned to leave than a rifle ball came whizzing by passing between his arm and body Mr Eakin then ran to his horse and the Indian fired another shot at him missing as in the first shot The Indian has not been arrested yet but vigilant search is being prosecuted

Property in Washington.

[Redfield's Letter to Cincinnati Commercial]

The large appropriations by congress for government buildings etc, here are giving a field for labor but the truth is there are ten laborers where there is work for three I know a stout able bodied black man who is driving a dray from daylight to dark at a salary of $2 50 per week and boarding himself Common labor can be had at almost any price. This fact and the low price of material are causing an amount of building here unexampled since the hard times set in Lots are bought and dwellings put up at less than one half the cost in 1870 And the decline continues Those who built last year thinking that "bottom" was surely reached now find their more lucky neighbors going through the same performance at ten to fifteen per cent less Many government clerks and salaried men are almost ruined by the constant shrinkage in real property For instance I know a man who bought a dwelling in 1873 for $8 000 paying $3 000 down, and the balance in payments of $50 per month with interest at ten per cent This has made the property cost him over $10 000 yet he could not get above $4 500 for it to-day In this way his surplus earnings have been swallowed he still owes a balance on the ten per cent notes and the property continues to shrink The notes appreciate and the property depreciates Real estate dealers claim that property is now at the "bottom," but they have predicted that every year since the panic. There is certainly a revival of building at this time but no revival in prices for town lots and building material The low quotations of the latter are the cause of activity in building Yet I am told there are 1 600 vacant dwelling houses in the city—not summer vacant but unoccupied for months It is getting to be cheaper to build a new house than to rent an old one

The Cry of Hard Times More a Habit than a Fact

[From the Ypsilanti (Mich) Sentinel]

Is there not a good deal of humbug about this eternal cry of hard times? Are the times really hard? For many they are and not easily but for many times were always hard Times were hard for one of our citizens who is now well off when we knew him to be whipping the cat at 50 cents a day and for another also well off who was carrying a hod for low wages entirely beyond his strength And so times are hard for men who are struggling for a foothold in the world as those men were then They are hard for those who never [illegible] for a rainy day And such times there always will be But if we look at the amount of building done in the various cities in the state this summer, at the immense amounts spent in excursions and attendance at shows at the constant travel on our railroads at the numbers of merchants lawyers clergy etc who spend the summer near the sea or go to the Paris exposition—the cry of hard times seems thin We take but little stock in it Crops are abundant, money is plenty Let that be understood once for all There never was a time in the history of the country when the sound currency of the country was in a larger ratio to the business which requires its use Whence then arises the cry of hard times? It opened with the collapse and panic of 1873 and it has become a habit [illegible] the causes have ceased to operate [illegible]

Manton Marble Again

[New York Special Aug 5]

Manton Marble has written a long letter to the electoral commission He made public [illegible] and [illegible] desire to have the electoral [illegible] the house [illegible] that all the old charges of chicanery in Louisiana and Florida [illegible] the Republicans ought have been proved

General Campbell of Pennsylvania a member of the Republican national committee reports that the [illegible] political activity in Pennsylvania is on the part of the Nationals, and that they are well supplied with money. It is alleged that Don Cameron is furnishing the sinews of war in the expectation of reciprocal favors next winter

CONDUCT OF THE SILVER DOLLAR

[From the New York Times]

The friends and some of the enemies of the silver dollar as an unlimited legal tender appear to be surprised at the behavior of that pretentious but delusive coin but there is nothing at all remarkable about it It acts according to its nature and we may be sure that it always will Some of those who opposed its restoration and argued with more or less confident reliance on sound principles as to the results which it would work out, have been too hasty in abandoning their ground and assuming that we are to escape the evil consequences They show too little faith in the principles which they formerly advocated and which have lost none of their vitality Those who thought the dollar of the fathers which by the way the fathers never showed much affection for would immediately restore prosperity and happiness are grievously disappointed They find that even a dollar worth but ninety cents cannot be obtained unless you have something worth ninety cents to give for it and hence the want of alacrity shown in taking it off the hands of the government In point of fact it thus far costs every man a full dollar, or at least a greenback dollar, to get it and that is what surprises people more than anything else They cannot get a thousand dollars in silver any easier than they could get a thousand dollars in legal tender notes before and they seem to be astonished Not having the substance wherewith to command the cash in this or any other form they do not get it at all and the government appeals in vain to the banks to take the coin and distribute it They have more money now than there is any call for and hence do not respond with eagerness They do not find that enthusiastic demand for the new dollar that was promised for the simple reason that it is not to be scattered broadcast as a largess for the people but must be paid for with its value like anything else While it costs as much as other currency and is vastly less convenient it refuses to flow with facility into the already clogged circulation Hence the beggarly amount that the banks are willing to take in exchange for paper which is under present circumstances more acceptable to customers for money, and the incorrigible tendency of the cumbersome coin when paid out by the treasury, to come rolling back into the vaults Nobody wants it, and when it is thrust upon anybody in payment he speedily turns it into the channel opened for it at the receipt of customs

This is chiefly due to the fact that thus far the silver dollar passes at the full standard and there is no chance of making a profit by its use in preference to other currency while its bulk and weight are disadvantageous which there is nothing to offset And why does it pass at the full standard on an equality with other dollars if it is worth but ninety cents? This is a very easy question, and yet those who have given up the case against depreciated silver seem to be unable to answer it So long as the amount issued is not sufficient to affect materially the general volume of the currency the silver coin holds a subsidiary place in the circulation and is kept up to the general level by the fact that there is not enough of it to exercise any controlling power over the exchanges of the country If the general volume were brought within normal limits and all forms of legal tender were convertible with gold alone, it is quite possible that we might float fifty millions, or even a larger amount of these dollars, without depreciation from the standard, for they would still hold a subsidiary place controlled by the rest of the currency instead of controlling it. But let the issue go on increasing and the full legal tender power of the coin remain until silver becomes sufficiently abundant to operate upon the larger exchanges and constitute the body of the medium for commercial transactions and its sinking to the level of its intrinsic value is just as sure as the course of the planets It will not show itself suddenly or be patent to the careless observer but greenbacks and all kinds of paper representatives of money will gradually sink to the silver level gold will steal away to foreign lands prices will rise to the extent of the debasement of the unit and we shall have, not a dual standard, but a silver standard with all its disadvantages fluctuating in itself, and out of joint with the exchanges with foreign countries

Meanwhile, there is no indication of a recovery in the price of silver bullion In fact it is lower than when the remonetization act passed.

A Theory Regarding the Sherman Letter

Gath interviewed Emory Storrs the noted Chicago lawyer at Long Branch and here is his idea of the true state of the famous Sherman letter

I have a lawyer's view and solution of it from a study of the evidence I believe that Anderson was kicking up such a row about his intentions, unless promised an office that Mrs Jenks took his letter to Weber & Co and said "Sherman won't give this man a promise such as he wishes there is no use asking for it What Sherman offers to write won't satisfy the man already lush with promises from the other side We must get up a more propitiatory letter." Accordingly I think the Weber junta got it up and signed Sherman's name to it, and traded on it as long as possible, until the hue and cry demanded it, and then knowing the letter would be exposed and perhaps the forgery punished, and at all events their capital gone, they burned the letter to keep up the delusion

Springer's Nonsense

[Tribune's Washington Aug 4]

Springer of the Potter committee, regards the case against the president as already made out and one which will not only justify impeachment but which demands it He thinks the Wormley Hotel conference, in connection with the subsequent action of the Louisiana commission, quite sufficient to sustain articles of impeachment and he fully expects the house to present them at an early day Such talk doubtless reflects the views of several members of the Potter committee

The Lewiston Teller says "The navigation of the Snake river is now somewhat difficult on account of low water The O S N Co's boats find the the Pine Tree and Texas rapids almost impassable when freighted They are preparing lines to warp over these passes, and we may expect a few more trips this season There is about 250 tons of freight in waiting to come up from Wallula "

THIS NEW BRAKE NOW BEING INTRODUCED by the inventor, J C Trullinger, is a combination of friction gear applied to the hub of a wagon. It is simple and light yet has more strength and durability than any other wagon brake now in use. It is so attached to the wagon that it is out of the way of the gearing, yet always reliable and at hand when required. Any teamster or mechanic can see at once its utility and effective force to hold a load on a down grade or to prevent horse backing when required. The Brake is made entirely of iron no wooden part being necessary, as no brake bar is used, hence it does not carry mud and is not affected by wet and muddy or icy roads.

We invite critical examination as we believe its merits can be demonstrated to any party who uses or understands a wagon brake

BEAUTY:

OR, THE

Secret of a Fair Face.

An Item of Interest to Every Lady who Desires to be More Beautiful than she now is.

Unfortunately not one woman in a hundred, subjected to the whims of an American climate, possesses that basis and starting point of real beauty—a pure and clear complexion. What nature has thus denied, art must be called upon to furnish. It can be done; it is done daily Prof. W E. Hagan placed beauty within the reach of every unblessed daughter of Eve when he discovered that surprising article known in fashionable circles as the true secret of beauty, and called

MAGNOLIA BALM

The MAGNOLIA BALM is a sure device for creating a pure and blooming complexion. It conceals all natural blemishes in the most surprising and effective manner It removes all roughness, eruptions, redness, blotches, freckles, and tan with magical power It drives away all evidences of fatigue and excitement. It makes the plainest face beautiful. It gives the complexion a dazzling purity and makes the neck, face and arms appear graceful, rotund and plump. It makes a matron of forty look not more than twenty, and changes the rustic maiden into a cultivated city belle.

The Magnolia Balm removes all crudities, conceals every drawback to beauty, and, while it is as harmless as water, is so lifelike in its effects that the closest observer cannot detect its use. Ladies who want to make themselves attractive can make an absolute certainty of it by using HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM and we know of no other way It is the cheapest preparation in the world all things considered and may be had at any drug store.

FRIDAY MORNING AUGUST [illegible] 1878

BURDENS OF DEBTOR AND CREDITOR

A leading wholesale merchant of Portland informs us that though the volume of business is large this year yet payments are slow and it is believed that in many localities the farmers are indebted in larger amount than usual to country merchants. This is remarked as a circumstance that could hardly have been expected at the present time from the fact that the prices realized by the farmers from sale of last year's products were almost exceptionally good. It is probably to be accounted for, in part at least, by the fact that much money has been expended for agricultural machinery and in various improvements and that farmers having had a prosperous year have in many cases been tempted to go beyond their ready cash, in anticipation of a return from their expenditures or investments which would bring them out all right again. Doubtless the opportunity has been taken by large numbers to buy machinery for the farm and to make general improvements which had long been needed, and indebtedness to country merchants may have accumulated on this account. But debts sap the strength of the farming community as they do no other class. In the first place to buy on long credits is wasteful, because the merchant must have prices which will enable him to carry his host of debtors and to make terms with the wholesale dealers, and in the next place, in consequence of low prices for succeeding crops or other mischance, it may lay the foundation of mortgages which shortly will swallow up all. The system of store credits which prevails among farmers has often been deprecated. Credit is the life of trade only when it is founded on confidence in ability to pay. On this general topic several good suggestions are offered by the Pacific Rural Press. It well says that there are many cases where men are in such desperate straits and so reduced in resources that they must depend on receiving some accommodation from the country merchant, and yet this reliance is much more prevalent than it ought to be. As a rule, perhaps our farmers buy too much, and they often buy what they could themselves produce. Great numbers of farmers are not self sustaining to the extent they ought to be, and many farmers are not masters of their own living, as they might be if they would devote more time to diversifying their productions, with a view to furnishing their tables from the field instead of from the grocer's. There have been in many parts of the country times when farmers suffered infinitely more from depression of prices than anything recently known. A wagon load of grain would bring but a very little, and that often payable in the poor stuff of state banks; and all a farmer could sell would yield barely enough to buy a few of the most common necessaries and pay his taxes. And yet people in those times usually lived well and were content, because they had not falsely learned to expect anything without toiling for it. From such surroundings most of us have come, and yet we have forgotten the lesson of home supply for simple tastes, economy and resulting independence which circumstances forced upon us in our childhood. That a return of those times and circumstances is to be wished we do not say, but if the policy of home support, which was an absolute necessity, could be now generally engrafted on our more favorable surroundings, there would be striking improvement in the general condition of the entire community. The greater would be the saving because so much less would be the spending, and in good years the farmer would have a handsome surplus for home improvement without mounting the back of the country merchant. He will carry you in a bad year, but when the tide of prosperity returns it will take all you can reap to pay for the lift you have had, and many never can get clear. These remarks are all trite. They have been presented in all possible shapes so often that there can be nothing new in them. But old facts are the best facts for general use, because one in following them is less liable to mistake. Trite as they are, these observations have been proven true in the experience of many provident farmers who, by their enterprise in diversifying their productions and fitting their land for this diversification, have made themselves independent, free from debt and filled their houses with plenty and comfort. They have resources against a failure of prices of staple products. This is the surety of success and safety in farming operations everywhere. First, when the farm is yours in fee simple, make it supply your daily wants as far as possible. The other method is to neglect this and risk all on the staple to be sold. When this is the plan adopted, the first unfavorable year claps a mortgage on the farm to pay for living expenses, and the interest, growing faster than future crops, soon puts the land in the hands of the bank or the merchant. This sequence of affairs has too often prevailed. On the side of the merchant it also leads often to embarrassment. The Pacific Grocer, established as an organ of country merchants, recently made these remarks. "To the merchant the system of indebtedness, though seemingly favorable at times, turns out the reverse. The farmer, if continually in debt, cannot rest or improve his land. Cropped continuously, the yield and quality of the grain decreases. With no hope of getting permanently out of debt, the farmer often loses his ambition. Seeing no prospect of relief, he often becomes reckless, and, in many instances when possible evades his liabilities to the merchant who has trusted him. High prices will not justify hazardous risks nor will poor farmers make a prosperous trade. It is time our people should base their expenditures upon what they have in hand and not what they hope to get, if a favorable season occurs. Until this habit of discounting the future is done away with, all kinds of business, merchandising and farming, will continue hazardous and hard times when they come will be all the more severely felt by our people." There is a better way than 'discounting the future,' and that is providing for it. If farmers could free themselves from the habit of risking their homes and their livelihood which is now often followed under this credit system they would escape many burdens and each era of prosperity which dawned upon them would exert its full force in pushing them forward into the enduring possession of competence and independence.

There is really quite a freeze in South Carolina. The noble law abiding people described by the Charleston News who distill moonshine whisky in the back districts and murder the revenue officers who attempt to call them to account, can't endure much longer the tyranny of a revenue system which compels payment of a whisky tax. They had proposed to put a stop to this in-hanging some revenue officers who had killed in self defense one of a gang of these free distillers but the United States authorities have decided to release the officers, by military force if necessary and there is wailing in South Carolina. A state's sovereignty is again trampled in the dust. The bulldozer has added to his usual occupation of terrorizing niggers the exalted character of an illicit distiller and in this capacity also he finds his natural rights so abridged by an odious despotism that we are told forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and dreadful things are going to happen. In order to propitiate South Carolina, would it be well to allow the distillers of crooked whisky to hang the revenue officers and then abandon collection of the revenue in South Carolina? Buchanan would do it that way.

Col Maxwell of Georgia a confederate officer writes to the New York Times a letter in which he agrees with Gen Grant that the so called battle of Lookout mountain was one of the romances of the war, that there was no such battle and no action worthy even to be called a battle on Lookout mountain. Maxwell at the time was commanding a brigade in Bates' division of Breckenridge's corps. Hooker's report of the "battle above the clouds" is pronounced a romance. This confederate officer says that the capture of Lookout mountain was to him and those about him an overwhelming surprise and he suspected it was equally so to Gen Bragg. But there was no battle, not even a skirmish fire.

Col Forney writes to the Philadelphia Press from Paris: "I was at Lyons, a few days ago and had a long talk with one of the leading silk manufacturers, he sadly admitted the coming dangerous competition of the Americans. Lyons mourns over the loss of the silk trade, Geneva over the loss of her watch trade, Russia over the loss of her leather trade, Manchester over the loss of her trade in cotton goods, Sheffield over the loss of her trade in iron fabrics, while America has become her own workshop and sells to the world, from which she formerly bought."

A clerk was wanted for a country store, and an advertisement to that effect was inserted in THE OREGONIAN. Applicants were to direct letters to this office. And now we have to use a bushel basket every day to bring letters from the postoffice. But another man who is in the dairy business and wanted to employ an active young man to work on his premises hasn't yet received a single answer and has withdrawn his advertisement in disgust.

THE CONFLICT WITH SOUTH CAROLINA

The following from the Cincinnati Gazette is a statement of the grounds of the conflict of authority between the United States and South Carolina:

Four revenue officers visited the house of Ladd where a noted outlaw and dealer in illicit spirits named Redmond, was supposed to be. Ladd was one of his drivers. As they approached the house Ladd tried to shoot them with his rifle, but the cap snapped without firing the gun, and while he was recapping one of the officers shot him. They were immediately imprisoned and indicted for murder. By statute of the United States prosecutions in the state courts of officers of the United States for any act done under color of their office shall, on application, be transferred to the courts of the United States. This is indispensable to the nation al jurisdiction, otherwise a seditious locality could nullify all United States jurisdiction.

The application was duly made and was refused by the South Carolina judge Kershaw upon the frivolous ground that as the officers by their own showing, were acting in self-defense, it was not done in their official capacity. But he does not mean to rest his refusal on this quibble. He asserts the supremacy of the state of South Carolina and, in his decision, he gave out a threat that if the United States shall attempt to enforce its law and shall take these officers from the state courts, the matter will be transferred from the judicial to the executive departments and grave consequences will follow. And the South Carolina papers repeat this threat in more violent terms.

The course which the authorities at Washington have determined to pursue is outlined in the following from the Gazette's Washington correspondence, July 2d:

Issue will soon be squarely joined between the United States and state court of South Carolina, in the case of the United States revenue officers. Earl, special counsel for the government arrived here to day, and had a full conference with the president, attorney general and Commissioner Raum. He reported that previous to leaving that state, he had obtained a writ of habeas corpus from the clerk of the circuit court of the United States, and that the marshal of that court had served this writ upon the sheriff having custody of the revenue officers, and that the sheriff had refused to recognize the writ and to allow the marshal to take possession of the prisoners.

No steps were taken by the marshal to compel respect for the process of the United States court, as it was thought best to delay action until after Earl's return from Washington.

After the close of the cabinet meeting to day Secretary Evarts was called in by the attorney general and president for consultation in regard to the case and he immediately took most decided grounds in favor of the government acting promptly, and using whatever authority and power was necessary to enforce the recognition of its habeas corpus, which had been refused by the sheriff.

The plan of allowing the case to go to the supreme court of the state of South Carolina which received considerable favor at one stage of the proceedings, was thereupon abandoned, and Earl was to again serve the writ of habeas corpus upon the sheriff and in case of refusal or of resistance he will then be immediately directed to employ a sufficient posse comitatus to take possession of the revenue officers and hold them in his custody.

It is scarcely believed here that the threats so freely made by the press of South Carolina that an attempt of the government to transfer this case in strict accordance with the statute laws, from the state courts to its own courts, will be resisted by force, but the transfer will be made at any hazard.

Information has been received to-day that Gov Hampton who was very prompt in offering a reward for Redmond, leader of the gang, and his associates, at the time when they broken open the jail in Pickens county, and released the illicit distillers had withdrawn his offer.

NOTES FROM PRINEVILLE

PRINEVILLE Wasco Co, Aug 1, 1878

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

To a person residing in the Willamette valley a trip across the towering Cascade range is really a rich treat. After traveling across the 60 mile tract that lies between Dallas and Lebanon in Linn county we leave the outside world and ascend the Cascade foot hills on the Lebanon and Santiam road. On every side towers the mountains—the Three Sisters and Mount Washington with their serrated sides covered with snow and glistening in the sunlight looking down upon us as we wander away through mountain gorge and defile. Slowly our team plods its way along. Away down three hundred feet below us the Santiam dashes madly, rushing on its onward way to the ocean and its foam capped billows seem to kiss the sunlight and dance—here in gladness where the trees permit the light to strike them and there where the [illegible] forest envelops them in shadow look murky and dark. Three days more will bring us to Camp Polk where Capt [illegible] made [illegible] a name in the war [illegible] 1863 and Lafollette. But [illegible] looks natural as ever. On the 4th day we are at Prineville, the liveliest sprightliest little town in eastern Oregon. Nestled among the hills [illegible] 40 [illegible] the centre of [illegible] the Dalles [illegible] large and increasing trade. Daily on its streets may be seen dozens of 100 teams and its [illegible]

Bryman & Summerville and Hodges & Wilson carry large stocks of dry and general goods. J H Glaze has a large and well fitted saloon and his business is such that he runs night and day with two assistants. One peculiarity I noticed here in my seven days' stay and that was that not one man under the influence of liquor was seen on the streets.

B F Nichols, of Dallas keeps the drug store, and Drs Whittaker and Vanderpool two blacksmiths one wagonmaker and two livery stables comprise the balance of the business community.

THE OREGONIAN is taken very largely here and were it not that our mail facilities are so poor we would have 50 copies more. Push up Postal Agent Steel to see that mails come here at least once a week and you will merit the praise of Prineville and the surrounding country.

The Way to Solve the Indian Question

In these times when everybody is ready with his suggestions as to how to bring the Indians to terms the following letter which has been received by Gov Chadwick will be accepted as timely:

POLK COUNTY July 18 8

Dear Excellency: In this dreadful suffering of our fellow citizens from the Indians there ought to be energetic acting against the red devils with balloons. They must be observed and grenade shelled in their hidden places, the balloons to use sighter telegraph.

You should telegraph the government to have at least a hundred flying machines (which are now invented) in the shortest time ready and all Indian agents told to make theyr Indians know that all who are not in they respectable reservations are considered hostiles. Yours truly

To the Cigar and Tobacco Trade in Oregon and Washington Territory:

In order to sell our Cigars and Tobacco as cheap as possible, we have come to the conclusion henceforth not to send an agent to Oregon and Washington Territory to solicit orders or to make collections. We are hereby enabled to save large expenses, and as a consequence, will sell our Cigars and Tobacco, of corresponding qualities, cheaper than any other house in this city.

Thanking you for the kind patronage with which you have favored us heretofore, we shall be pleased to receive henceforth your valued orders and remittances direct. Respectfully,

CITY.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER—John Warring a carpenter who for the past 18 months has been in the employ of the O & C R R Co at their warehouse in East Portland was arrested yesterday on a requisition from the governor of Pennsylvania upon a charge of murder alleged to have been committed in Clearfield county in that state in the fall of 1876. The story is about as follows: Three or four years ago there lived with his wife in the county named above a railroad engineer named Waple. An official of the company named Turner became enamored of Mrs Waple who it seems was rather free in her ways and with the aid of Warring concocted a scheme by which her husband was committed to the state penitentiary of Pennsylvania for a term of seven years. The woman joined in the plot in consideration of certain promises which Turner made her, and which after it had succeeded and he had vented his evil purposes he refused to ratify. Resentment against his inconstancy prompted a strong revenge. Her intimacy with him was of such a confidential character that she was able to give testimony which would commit him to the penitentiary for the crime of arson. She had sworn out papers necessary for his prosecution when she was missed, and a week later her dead body pierced through the breast and the back by pistol balls was found in a forest not far from where she lived. Circumstances led to suspicion against Turner and Warring and the former was arrested, but the latter getting wind of the matter departed for parts unknown. Turner was tried and convicted but moving for a new trial the case has been continued from term to term and sentence has not yet been passed upon him. Although diligent search has been made for Warring his whereabouts was not ascertained until a few weeks ago when his wife overjoyed by receiving a letter containing money from him, imparted knowledge of the circumstance to detectives appeared to her in the guise of friends. Mr Hoover, a deputy sheriff of Clearfield county was dispatched for the ex[illegible] and arrived by the last steamer. He went to Salem procured a requisition from Gov Chadwick and returning to this city put the matter into the hands of officer Hudson, who soon found Warring and lodged him in the city jail. Warring claims that the charges are utterly false and that he can easily prove an alibi. Mr Hoover and his prisoner will depart by the steamship Great Republic, which sails this morning.

BALL EXTRACTED—The Vancouver Independent says: Sergeant A. Repert, company [illegible] 21st Infantry who was wounded at the battle of the Clearwater last year by a Nez Perces bullet carried the ball over a year. Last month it was successfully extracted from the wound in the thigh, near the groin, it having worked its way some distance during the time he has been in hospital. His wound is now healing, but the leg which was broken by the shot, is about two inches shorter than the other. The ball of an ounce weight jagged and flattened with small pieces of bone imbedded in the lead, has been mounted for a watch charm by T. C Stephens, the Vancouver jeweler, with silver bands forming a very neat cage around it. Mr. Stephens engraved upon it, "Sergt A. Repert, Wounded at Clearwater July 11 1877, Extracted July [illegible], 1878," which briefly tells of a year of fearful suffering endured by the owner of this odd ornament.

NEARLY A FIRE.—When will people ever learn that the practice of starting a fire with coal oil is a dangerous one? Experience seems to teach no one this important fact. Only yesterday a private house came near being destroyed by fire, and all from the careless and thoughtless use of coal oil. The lady of the house was kindling a fire and in doing so used oil upon the wood. When the match was applied an explosion ensued which scattered the stove into fragments and sent the burning wood over the floor. The lady screamed for help and her husband came to her assistance with whose aid, the fire was extinguished. The floor of the room was burned in several places, but the lady luckily escaped without injury. Had it not been for the timely appearance of her husband undoubtedly a serious conflagration would have ensued.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE.—From the Sentinel it is learned that the corner stone of the new cathedral in this city will be laid with imposing ceremonies on next Thursday—the feast of the assumption of the blessed Virgin—a most fitting occasion, inasmuch as the sacred edifice will be dedicated to the worship of God under the patronage of Mary Immaculate. Rev P. F. Gibney, pastor of St. James church, McMinnville, will preach on the occasion. It is hoped that all Catholic societies will make arrangements to assist at the ceremonies and also that Catholics from adjacent places will be present on that important occasion. Invitations have been sent to all the Rev clergy in the province to participate and it is expected that a large number of them will be present. The ceremonies will begin at 4 o'clock.

ON THE SAND.—The steamship Oregon, while on the way down the river yesterday, stuck fast on the St Helen's bar. She succeeded in passing almost entirely over, when the stern struck and hung. The steamer then swung around which made matters all the worse. The steamer Dixie Thompson and Welcome came along and hitched on endeavoring to pull her off. After tugging for about an hour in vain, the steamers came on to the city. It was thought that aided by the high tide, the Oregon would get off at midnight.

INSTALLED.—The following officers of Non-pareil Lodge No 86 I. O. G. T., were installed Wednesday evening, by Mrs S. T W. Stearns, Lodge Deputy: Geo. E Porter, W C T, Mrs A G Burr W V T, W S James, W Sec; Miss Lizzie Merrill, W. A S, J A Peterson, W F S, Miss Maggie Lent W Chap, H F Nelson, W. M, Mrs E A Culey, W I G, W P Bown, W O G; Mrs M B Virgil W R H S, Miss Esther Richey W L H S, E W Ryan, P W C T. The Lodge reports 56 members.

ORGANIZED.—Division No 2, of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was organized Wednesday evening with the following officers: President, S. J McCormick, vice president Ed Browne, recording secretary, Charles McBreen, financial secretary, J. D Hurley, treasurer, John O'Connor. This division will meet on the third Wednesday of the present month.

ACTING TEMPORARILY.—Mr Charles Cole who has been connected with the postoffice in this city for some time is at present acting as route agent between Portland and Astoria, in place of Capt Tuttle who is taking a short vacation.

MESSAGES.—The following messages remain uncalled for at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company: Paul Genisk, J W D[illegible], M A Walz, Mrs Fanny Semler, Mrs Woodbanks, Dr Tolkman, I Wiggins.

CALENDAR.—According to the Churchman the following is the calendar for August: 11th [illegible] after Trinity; 18th Ninth Sunday after Trinity; 24th St Bar[illegible]; [illegible] after Trinity.

CRICKET MATCH.—[illegible] on the grounds in East Portland between eleven cricketers and [illegible] seven base ballists.

The lady of the house was kindling a fire and in doing so used oil upon the wood. When the match was applied an explosion ensued which scattered the stove into fragments and sent the burning wood over the floor. The lady screamed for help and her husband came to her assistance, with whose aid the fire was extinguished. The floor of the room was burned in several places, but the lady luckily escaped without injury. Had it not been for the timely appearance of her husband undoubtedly a serious conflagration would have ensued.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE —From the Sentinel it is learned that the corner stone of the new cathedral in this city will be laid with imposing ceremonies on next Thursday —the feast of the assumption of the blessed virgin—a most fitting occasion, inasmuch as the sacred edifice will be dedicated to the worship of God under the patronage of Mary Immaculate. Rev. P. F. Gibney, pastor of St James' church, McMinnville will preach on the occasion It is hoped that all Catholic societies will make arrangements to assist at the ceremonies and also that Catholics from adjacent places will be present on that important occasion. Invitations have been sent to all the Rev. clergy in the province to participate, and it is expected that a large number of them will be present The ceremonies will begin at 4 o'clock.

ON THE SAND. — The steamship Oregon, while on the way down the river yesterday, stuck fast on the St. Helen's bar. She succeeded in passing almost entirely over, when the stern struck and hung. The steamer then swung around which made matters all the worse The steamer Dixie Thompson and Welcome came along and hitched on endeavoring to pull her off. After tugging for about an hour in vain, the steamers came on to the city. It was thought that, aided by the high tide, the Oregon would get off at midnight

THE "BELLE OF OREGON."

A HANDSOME VESSEL IN WHICH PORTLAND HAS AN INTEREST – A JOLLY SEA MAN AND A JOLLY GOOD SHIP TOO

Every Oregonian feels interest and pride in whatever marks the advancement of the state toward commercial importance and the barque Belle of Oregon, which arrived here on Monday has a peculiar interest from the circumstance of being partially owned by Portland gentlemen The compliment of her name and that she is equal or better than any vessel of her class which has visited this port heretofore are additional and just causes for gratification and pride The Belle of Oregon was built in 1876, at Bath, Maine by Messrs Goss & Sawyer ship builders somewhat famed by the excellence of their work for a company of which Messrs M S Burrell R R Thompson, Henry Failing and S G Reed capitalists of this city are prominent members Since that time she has made several most successful voyages Her last run from Hongkong to Portland was made in thirty six days—a remarkably short time when the great distance is considered By invitation of Capt Merriman, her master and one of her owners a representative of THE OREGONIAN visited the vessel yesterday and inspected her from stem to stern Her register is 1[illegible] tons but she can easily carry from 1 750 to 1 800 tons of grain and is furnished with appliances for keeping such a cargo well ventilated and in good condition She has port holes in bow and stern through which 40-inch spars or other freight proportionately bulky can be passed large hatches and well supported decks which are sufficiently strong to bear safely the heavy seas of a storm Her timbers are massive and strong the knees being of hacmatac, a wood of great strength and durability and so expensive that it is used only in vessels of the first class and her sides are solid well salted and are plated on the outside with copper between which and the wood is a lining of tarred felt paper Convenient features of her equipment are a steam engine whose force can be applied to any part of the vessel for the work of raising and discharging cargo, pumping, hoisting the anchors and for other uses, and a condensing aparatus which is capable of converting in twenty-four hours 650 gallons of the foul and noxious "vasty" into pure fresh water suitable for every purpose of life Her "galleys" workshop and appliances are complete and afford every convenience for the easy transaction of labor and means of escape in case of disaster by shipwreck or other misfortune The cabins in which Capt Merriman and his wife live are roomy and elegant in finish and appointments The courteous hospitality of the captain and Mrs Merriman gave our visit a delightful charm The public in general are invited to call and inspect the vessel which lies at Flanders dock at the foot of B street

FROM THE SEASIDE

ILWACO W T Aug 1878

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

This place used to be called Unity and is better known by that name I think than by the present at least to Portlanders This is a nice place to spend a summer vacation There is a very good hotel here with fine accommodations rates board per week, $6 board and lodging $8

There are about eighty persons visiting here some rent cottages some prefer tenting and quite a number have located on the ocean beach, one mile from this point We find here Messrs Sewall Taylor Thompson Holman, Danvers Northrup Pease and their families Wednesday the Welcome Douglass Capt brought a large crowd of excursionists from Portland consisting of Messrs H H Northrup Cornell Shindler Nicklin Acton Whalley with their families and many others Everybody is settled and resolved upon having a gay time This is a very healthy locality The pastimes and amusements are varied and numerous Cool breezes blow almost constantly Parties go fishing with excellent success daily and hunting for game Crowds come over from Astoria and other points spend a few hours viewing the beautiful and interesting sights at the cape and rambling over the country enjoying all the varied benefits that accrue from such recreations returning the same day Persons also enjoy boat riding and play croquet visit the beach take equestrian exercise eat drink and be merry A boat comes from Astoria daily except Thursdays and Sundays A good crowd can probably secure a boat to come over on those days also at certain times The mail comes every Wednesday and Saturday It is a dreary interval between mail days

It is a nice drive to Shoalwater bay and excursions are frequent The view of the ocean Columbia river, Astoria and ships sailing to and fro on the waters is very enjoyable To-day a large crowd went bathing in the surf and they had all sorts of costumes on, from a linen "duster" to the elegant bathing suit direct from "Newport"

There was a hard rain storm here Monday night, Some Portland yachtmen,—Messrs Talbot, Woodward, Linden, Brenner (captain) and others, came down here on a brief visit One of the party Mr Woodward, took sick and the party returned

A very sad event occurred here to-day which had a tendency to cast a gloom over the company Mrs Tanner, a lady from Portland, took seriously ill and before medical aid reached her she died She leaves a husband and son, the latter aged 12 The body was forwarded to Portland by Captain Megler's kindness, and the favors of the O S N Co It seemed sad to contemplate death where there is so much of gaiety and exhilaration of spirits as is to be found amongst the merry crowds here

There is a slight mist falling to night It seldom rains this time of year here The weather is usually very pleasant and persons desirous of spending a charming vacation could find here a realization of their fondest wishes

THE STEINWAY PIANOS AGAIN.

A RECOMMENDATION AND TESTIMONIAL FROM LEADING ARTISTS IN THE WORLD

The Piano Fortes manufactured by Messrs Steinway & Sons have established for themselves so world wide a reputation that it is hardly possible for us to add anything to their great fame.

Having thoroughly tested and tried these instruments personally for years, both in public and private it becomes our pleasant duty to express our candid opinion regarding their unquestioned superiority over any other Piano known to us

Among the chief points of their uniform excellence are Greatest possible depth richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy clearness and perfect evenness throughout the entire scale and above all a surprising duration of sound the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch

This peculiarity is found exclusively in the "Steinway" Piano, and together with the matchless precision, elasticity and promptness of action always characterizing these instruments as well as their unequaled durability under the severest trials, is truly surprising We therefore consider the Steinway Pianos in all respects the best instruments made in this country or in Europe use them solely and exclusively ourselves in public or private and recommend them invariably to our friends and the public

We have at different times expressed our opinions regarding the pianos of various makers, but freely and unhesitatingly pronounce MESSRS STEINWAY & SONS Pianos superior to them all

ITEMS FROM DALLAS

Under date of Aug 7th a correspondent sends the following

Weather cool and delightful

People very happy to think they will soon have their new railroad

Farmers very busy harvesting and receiving an abundant yield generally

Ground purchased and new hotel to be erected in this city immediately

Many strangers are looking at the country and wondering why they have not before seen this beautiful garden and salubrious climate

Farmers laying off the ground on the line of the new road and erecting large and commodious warehouses to store their grain against the time the iron horse shall whistle

Nearly every farmer that has an orchard of any size have purchased or is about to purchase a Plummer fruit dryer having at last found a cheap and profitable way to preserve this important crop

Your correspondent called upon Colonel Nesmith of Dixie Polk county and found the colonel very busy gathering his large crop of wheat—some 1,000 acres He also has some 100 bushels of fruits of all kinds apples pears and plums—and he informed me he had not time to gather but that he would like some energetic man of family to move into his vacant house and bring a Plummer fruit dryer with him and preserve this large amount of fruit now going to waste Any person wishing to engage in this profitable undertaking can address the colonel at Dixie

THE WEBER PIANOS AHEAD.

Among the thousands of endorsements which the Weber Pianos have received from the greatest singers and pianists of the world we give sample extracts of letters

- NILSSON—I shall take every opportunity to recommend and praise your Instruments
- DE MURSKA—Your instruments surpass my expectations and I rank you justly as the first manufacturer of the day
- KELLOGG —For the last six years your Pianos have been my choice for the Concert Room and my own house.
- WEHLI—Mme PAREPA called your Pianos the finest in the United States I fully endorse that opinion They have no rival anywhere
- CAREY The richness and sympathetic quality of tone combined with great power make the Weber Piano my favorite
- ANNA MEHLIG—I have selected a Weber Grand to be used at my Concerts during my engagement with Mr Theodore Thomas Orchestra
- MILLS—Amongst American excellent Pianos the Weber ranks first and foremost
- MUZIO—I consider the Weber Pianos the best Pianos in the world
- BRISTOW —To me the Weber Piano contains everything that can be wished for in an instrument

Prase Patilson Mason Maretzek, Brignoli Hoffman Morgan Mollenhauer, and in fact every independent Artist of note are at present using the Weber Pianos in preference to all others

The Weber Pianos received the highest awards 95 out of a possible 96) at the Centennial the award of the judges reading as follows

For sympathetic pure and rich tone combined with greatest power for intelligence and solidity of construction for a pliant and easy touch which at the same time answers promptly to its requirements together with excellence of workmanship

THE COL S BUSINESS

BY BRET HARTE

What the colonel's business was nobody knew nor did anybody care particularly He purchased for cash only, and never grumbled at the price of anything he wanted who could ask more than that?

Curious people occasionally wondered how when it had been fully two years since the colonel with every one else abandoned Dutch Creek to the Chinese he managed to spend money freely and lose considerable at cards and horse races In fact the keeper of that one of the two Challenge Hill saloons which the colonel did not patronize was once heard to absent mindedly wonder whether the colonel hadn't a money mill somewhere where he turned out double eagles and 'slugs' (the coast name for $50 gold pieces)

When so important a personage as a bar keeper indulged publicly in an idea the inhabitants of Challenge Hill like good Californians everywhere considered themselves in duty bound to give it grave consideration so for a few days certain industrious professional gentlemen who won money of the colonel, carefully weighed some of the brightest pieces and tested them with acids, and tasted them and sawed them in two, and retired them, and melted them up and had them assayed

The result was a complete vindication of the colonel and a loss of considerable custom to the industrious barkeeper

The colonel was as good natured a man as had ever been known at Challenge Hill but being mortal, the colonel had his occasional turns of despondency, and one of them occurred after a series of races in which he had staked his all on his own bay mare "Tipsie, and had lost

Looking reproachfully at his beloved animal failed to heal the aching void of his pockets and drinking deeply, swearing eloquently and glaring defiantly at all mankind were equally unproductive of coin

The boys at the saloon sympathized most feelingly with the colonel they were unceasing in invitations to drink, and they even exhibited considerable Christian forbearance when the colonel savagely dissented with everybody who advanced any proposition, no matter how incontrovertible

But unappreciated sympathy grows decidedly tiresome to the giver, and it was with a feeling of relief that the boys saw the colonel stride out of the saloon, mount 'Tipsie' and gallop furiously away

Riding on horseback has always been considered an excellent sort of exercise, and fast riding is universally admitted to be one of the most healthful and delightful means of exhilaration in the world

But when a man is so absorbed in his exercise that he will not stop to speak to a friend and when his exhilaration is so great that he turns his eyes from the well meaning thumbs pointed significantly into doorways through which a man has often passed while seeking bracing influences, it is but natural that people should express some wonder

The colonel was well known at Toddy Flat Come Hand, Blazers, Murderer's Bar, and several other villages through which he passed As no one had been seen to precede him, betting men were soon offering odds that the colonel was running away from some one

Strictly speaking, they were wrong but they won all the money that had been staked against them, for within half an hour's time there passed over the road, an anxious looking individual, who reined up in front of the principal saloon of each place, and asked if the colonel had passed

Had the colonel known that he was followed, and by whom there would have been an extra [illegible] at the latter place very shortly after, for the pursuer was the constable of Challenge Hill, and for constables and all officers of the law the colonel possessed hatred of unspeakable intensity

On galloped the colonel, following the stage road, which threaded the old mining camps on Dutch creek. Suddenly he turned abruptly out of the road and urged his horse through the young pines and bushes, which grew thickly by the road, while the constable galloped rapidly on to the next camp.

There seemed to be no path through the thicket into which the colonel had turned but "Tipsie" walked between the trees and shrubs as if they were the familiar objects of her own stable yard.

Suddenly a voice from the bushes shouted "What's up?"

"Business—that's what," replied the colonel

"It's about time," replied the voice, and its owner—a bearded [illegible] emerged from the bushes, and stroked "Tipsie's" nose with the freedom of an old acquaintance. "We ain't had a nip since last night, and there ain't a cracker, or a handful of flour in the shanty The old [illegible] back on yer?"

"Yes," replied the colonel ruefully; "lost every blasted race. 'Twasn't her fault—bless her—she done her level best. Everybody to home?"

"You bet," said the man "All been prayin for yer to turn up with the rocks, an something with more color than spring water Come on"

The man led the way, and "Tipsie" and the colonel followed, and the trio suddenly found themselves before a small log hut, but in front of which sat three solemn, disconsolate individuals, who looked appealingly to the colonel.

"Mac'll tell yer how 'twas, fellers," said the colonel meekly, "while I picket the mare"

The colonel was absent but a very few moments, but when he returned each of the four was attired in pistol and knife, while Mac was distributing some dominoes made from a rather dirty flour bag

"Tain't so late as all that, is it?" inquired the colonel.

"Better be an hour ahead than miss in this ere night," said one of the four "I ain't been so thirsty since I come round the Horn in '50, an' we run short of water Somebody'll get hurt if there ain't any bitters on the old [illegible]—they will, or my name ain't Perkins"

"Don't count your chickens fore they re hatched, Perky," said one of the party as he adjusted the domino under the rim of his hat

"S'posen there shud be too many for us?"

"Buddy, Buddy, Cranks!" remonstrated the colonel "Nobody ever gets along if they 'low themselves to be skeered."

"Fact," chimed in the smallest and thinnest man of the party, "The Bible says so—be thin mighty hot [illegible] that I disremember exactly how, but I've heerd 'Parson Buzzy down in Maine, preach a rippin old sermon maby a time. The old man never thot what a comfort them sermons was goin to be to a road agent, though. That time we stopped Slim Mike's stage, and he didn't hev no more manners than to draw on me them sermons wuz a perfect blessing to me—the thought of 'em cleared my head as a cocktail An'—"

"I don't want to dispute Logroller's pious strains," interrupted the colonel, but ez it's Old Black that's drivin' to day instead of Slim Mike, an' ez Old Black allers makes his time, hadn't we better vamoose?"

The door of the shanty was hastily closed, and the men filed through the thicket until near the road, when they marched rapidly on in parallel lines with it. After about half an hour Perkins, who was leading halted and wiped his perspiring brow with his shirt sleeve.

"Far enough from home now," said he. "Tain't no use being a gentleman ef yer have to work too hard"

"Safe enough, I reckon," replied the colonel

"We'll do the usual [illegible] hold 'em Logroller 'tend to the driver, Cranks takes the boot an' Mac an Perk takes right and left An'—I know it's tough—but considerin how everlastin' eternally hard up we are I reckon we'll have to ask contributions from the ladies too ef there's any aboard—eh boys?"

"Reckon so," replied Logroller with a chuckle that seemed to inspire even his domino with a merry wrinkle or two "What's the use of woman's rights if they don't have a chance of exercisin' em? Bein their purses borrowed and show 'em the whole doctrine in a bran new light."

"Come boys come" interposed the colonel, "that's the crack of Old Black's whip! pick yer bushes—quick! All jump when I whistle"

Each man secreted himself by the roadside The stage came swinging along handsomely, the passengers inside were laughing heartily about something and Old Black was just giving a delicate touch to the flank of the off leader when the colonel gave a sharp shrill whistle, and five men sprang into the road

The horses stopped as suddenly as if it were a matter of common occurrence Old Black dropped the reins, crossed his legs, and stared into the sky and the passengers put out their heads with a rapidity equaled only by that with which they withdrew them when they saw the dominoes and revolvers of the road agents

"Seems to be something the matter gentlemen" said the colonel, blandly as he opened the door

"Won't you please get out Don't trouble yourself to draw, my friend here's got his weapon cocked an his fingers are rather nervous [illegible] however?" asked he of the first passenger who descended from the stage "Hey? Well now that's lucky Just put yer hands behind you [illegible] so that's it" And the unfortunate man was securely bound in an instant

The remaining passengers were treated with similar courtesy, and the colonel and his friends examined the pockets of the captives Old Black remained unmolested for who ever heard of a stage driver having money

"Boys," said the colonel calling his brother agents aside and comparing receipts "tain't much of a haul but there's only one woman aboard [illegible] enough to [illegible] grub for her. [illegible] let her alone"

"[illegible] all the rest of the stage put together" growled Cranks carefully testing the thickness of the case of a gold watch "Just like the [illegible] deceitfulness of some folks to hire an old woman to carry their money I go after Mabbe what she's got ain't nothin' to some folks that's got hosses that kin win em money at races but—"

The colonel [illegible] ended the conversation and approached the stage He was very chivalrous but Crank's sarcastic reference to Tipsie needed avenging and as he could not consistently with business arrangements put an end to Cranks the old lady would have to suffer.

"I beg your pardon ma'am said the colonel raising his hat politely with one hand and the stage door with the other but we're taking up a collection for some deserving object We wuz agoin to make the gentleman fork over the hull amount but ez they haint got enough, we will hev to bother you"

The old lady trembled [illegible] for her pocket book raised her veil The colonel looked at her face, slammed the stage door and sitting on the hub of one of the wheels stared vacantly into space

"Nothing?" queried Perkins in a whisper and face full of genuine sympathy

"No—yes," said the colonel dreamily. "That is, untie 'em and let the stage go ahead," he continued springing to his feet "I'll hurry back to the cabin" And the colonel dashed into the bushes and left his followers so paralyzed with astonishment that Old Black afterward remarked that ef there'd been anybody to mind the hosses he could hev cleaned the whole crowd with his whip The passengers now relieved of their weapons, were unbound allowed to enter the stage and the door was slammed upon which Old Black picked up his reins as coolly as if he had laid them down at a station while the horses were being changed, then he cracked his whip and the stage rolled off while the colonel's party hastened back to their hut fondly inspecting as they went certain flasks they had obtained while transacting their business with the occupants of the stage

Great was the surprise of the road agents as they entered their hut, for there stood the colonel in a clean white shirt and in a suit of clothing made from the limited spare wardrobes of the other members of the gang

But the suspicious Cranks speedily subordinated his wonder to his prudence as laying on the table a watch, two pistols, a pocket-book and a heavy purse he exclaimed

"Come colonel business before pleasure let's divide an' scatter Ef anybody should hear about it an' find our trail an ketch the traps in our possession they might——"

"Divide yerselves!" said the colonel with abruptness and a great oath "I don't want any of it"

"Colonel," said Perkins removing his own domino and looking anxiously into the leader's face, "be you sick? Here's some bully brandy which I found in one of the passengers pockets"

"I hain't nothin," replied the colonel with averted eyes "I'm goin and I'm retirin' from this business forever."

"Ain't goin—to—turn evidence?" cried Cranks grasping the pistol on the table.

"I'm a goin to make a lead mine of you if you don't take that back!" roared the colonel with a bound which caused Cranks to drop the pistol and retire precipitately, apologizing as he went "I'm goin' to tend to my own business an that's enough to keep any man busy. Somebody lend me fifty dollars till I see him again"

Perkins pressed the money into the colonel's hand and within two minutes the colonel was on Tipsie's back and galloped on in the direction the stage had taken

He overtook it, he passed it, and still he galloped on

The people at Mud Gulch knew the colonel well and made a rule never to be astonished at anything he did, but they made an exception to the rule when the colonel canvassed the principal barrooms for men who wanted to purchase a horse, and when a gambler who was flush obtained "Tipsie" for twenty slugs—only a thousand dollars when the colonel had always said that there wasn't gold enough on the top of ground to buy her—Mud Gulch experienced a decided sensation

One or two enterprising persons speedily discovered that the colonel was not in a very communicative mind, so every one retired to his favorite saloon to bet according to his own opinion of the colonel's motives and action

But when the colonel, after remaining in a barbershop for half an hour emerged with his face clean shaved and hair neatly trimmed and parted, betting was so wild that a cool headed sporting man speedily made a fortune by betting against every theory that was advanced

Then the colonel made a tour of the stores and fitted himself with a new suit of clothes carefully eschewing all the generous patterns and pronounced colors so dear to the average miner He bought a new hat and put on a pair of boots, and pruned his finger nails and stranger than all he wildly declined all invitations to drink.

As the colonel stood in the door of the principal saloon, where the stage always stopped the Challenge Hill constable was seen to approach the colonel and tap him on the shoulder upon which all men who bet that the colonel was dodging somebody claimed the stakes. But those who stood near the colonel heard the constable say

"Colonel I take it all back When I seed you get out of Challenge Hill it come to me that you might be in the road agent business so I followed you—duty you know But when I seen you sell Tipsie I knew I was on the wrong trail I wouldn't suspect you now if all the stages in the state wuz robbed and I'll give you satisfaction any way you want it."

"It's all right," said the colonel, with a smile The constable afterwards said that nobody had any idea of how curiously the colonel smiled when his beard was off

Suddenly the stage pulled up at the door with a crash and the male passengers hurried into a saloon in a state of utter indignation and impecuniosity.

The story of the robbery attracted everybody and during the excitement the colonel slipped out quietly and opened the door of the stage The old lady started and cried

George!

And the colonel jumped into the stage and put his arms around the trembling form of the old lady exclaiming

Mother!

There is no lack of money in this market but the call for moving the wheat crop has not commenced The demand for the wool crop continues moderate

Wheat.

Excepting a single instance, wherein a rare necessity caused a purchaser to give San Francisco prices for small lots the local wheat market has been in that inactive state during the past week which usually closely precedes a new crop We cannot quote at over $1.60 per cental The weather for the past few weeks has fairly developed the young grain and from samples from various sections which we have seen we feel certain that the quality of this year's yield will be better than that of many years past. A friend residing at Scio, in Marion county has sent us a fine sample of the new crop with the following note "I send by mail to you a sample of fall sown grain of this year's harvesting You will notice the size plumpness and rich color of the berry So far the grain as harvested has been of excellent quality There was much talk of short crops during the spring and early summer but no complaints are heard now as the yield will come up to the average [illegible] and the quality is superior to many [illegible] with whom I have talked Spring sown grain is not yet being cut This beautiful bright weather just suits the farmer"

The grain in eastern Oregon and Washington will not be of as good quality as usual The acreage is large however and the surplus for export will be great A great deal of grain in that section has been harvested and the Walla Walla papers report that it is coming into that market in great quantity The Statesman thinks that the dealers are bearing the market (a mischief very common at the commencement of a season) and while disapproving of the principle of farmers hurrying [illegible] at current prices.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
Chronic and Difficult Diseases.
He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.
HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS
public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.
DR BRENAN
has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time
THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health
THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE
over most physicians—he can tell the patients disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This accounts in part for his great professional success
All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.
will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps
Everything strictly confidential and honorable
THE DOCTOR
has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify
CAUTION
Persons coming to Portland requiring medical treatment [illegible] with me will please beware of persons who may try to lead them away to other so called doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make Be sure and ask for DR PAUL M BRENAN the Medical Lecturer and read his sign on his door

GENERAL NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.)

Yellow Fever at Port Eads.

NEW ORLEANS Aug 9—Seventeen cases of fever have occurred at Port Eads Of these [illegible] recovered and fifteen are under treatment Being seized with a panic the employes on the jetties and the foreman took a boat yesterday for Mobile The laborers also left many of them coming to this city Two on arriving here were reported sick and were admitted to the charity hospital Work at the jetties is reported [illegible] suspended The lighthouse keeper has a wife and daughter down with fever

Texas Greenbackers.

A Galveston special says the Greenback state convention at Waco nominated a full state ticket with W H Hammons for the office of governor

The Lemhi Bannacks

HELENA Montana Aug 9—There is no truth in the report that Ten Doy's band of Bannacks had left the agency with hostile intent They are proceeding under escort of U S troops to the buffalo country It is claimed there are no provisions at the agency They have been subsisting on rabbits and squirrels One of their number stealing some things from a ranch at Beaver Head canyon, was shot and killed by a party on the lookout for the thief Considerable excitement was thus caused, through uncertainty as to how the Bannacks might regard it Ten Doy was notified of the deed, and on seeing the remains of the thief said, He was bad Indian bury him

A Scare about Hand Grenades

NEW YORK, Aug 9—The World's Cincinnati special says Considerable excitement was occasioned here by the discovery that a manufacturer in this city is engaged in making a large quantity of hand grenades An Enquirer reporter called on him to-day and was informed that he was making them, but whether they were for communists or not he declined to say He said, however, that he had already received an order for 26 000 from California parties That was all he knew or wanted to know It is suspected that the grenades are for communists of this section A letter recently received by officers of the Socialistic labor party here from a leader of the communists in Pennsylvania, said that the communists were armed with hand grenades and prepared for effective work when the time would come

South Carolina Republicans.

COLUMBIA S C Aug 8—The Republican state convention was in secret session the greater part of the day The platform declares that the principles of equal, civil and political rights can only be enforced by the Republican party reiterates abhorrence of violence intimidation and frauds in elections, denounces the practice of Democrats attending Republican meetings, charges Democrats with being unfaithful to pledges of 1876, denounces Democrats for frauds, violence and intimidation in 1876 for assassinations and murders during that campaign, and for subsequent violent seizure of the state government, denounces unseating of certain Republican members of the legislature, arraigns Democrats for abolishing or removing certain election precincts arraigns the so-called fraud investigation, reaffirms belief in the fair election of Hayes and Chamberlain, and pledges the Republican party to the work of purifying the public service Following is the ninth article of the platform.

We deem it inexpedient to nominate candidates for governor and other state offices, because owing to the condition of affairs in this state occasioned by rifle club rule and two years of Democratic supremacy it is impossible for Republican voters in many counties without incurring great personal danger to organize for the campaign or to vote at the election when held.

The Bankers' Association

SARATOGA, Aug 8—In the bankers association to day J D Vermilye of New York presented an elaborate table prepared at the clearing house showing the disastrous effects produced and still menacing the country by reason of excessive taxation of banks He showed how the capital and surplus of banks had been depleted during the past few years and asked the executive council to take action to bring the facts to the knowledge of congress The executive council reported the following

Resolved, That in the opinion of this association the near approach of the day appointed by law for resumption of coin payments and value is to be hailed as an event of highest significance to the prosperity and welfare of the whole nation because it is the only means by which industry, trade and general tranquility and contentment can be restored to the people The American bankers association therefor pledge their aid and support to government in returning to the specie standard in transaction of the financial affairs of the country

Resolved, That the resources of the country arising from abundant crops of successive years extraordinary mineral wealth large credit balances of trade with other nations and from rapid development of mechanical inventions and appliances by which productive industry has been facilitated and increased all happily concur in supplying necessary means for coin resumption.

The resolutions were adopted unanimously

Explosion of Kerosine.

NEW YORK Aug 9—A barrel of kerosine exploded in Seiger's grocery store on Barclay street this morning injuring one of the employes and setting the building on fire While the firemen were at work subduing the flames another barrel exploded severely injuring five of them

Woman Suffrage

CONCORD, N H Aug 9—The bill allowing women to vote at school meetings passed the house of representatives yesterday It had previously passed the senate by a vote of 9 to 3 This is the first substantial legislative victory won by woman suffragists in New England

Ship Sold

NEW YORK Aug 9—The Black Ball packet ship Great Western has been sold to parties in San Francisco for the coal trade This ship was built by W H Webb at a time when New York [illegible] stood pre eminent for construction [illegible] speed The Great Western is built almost entirely of live oak [illegible] her model is that of our fast sailing men of war very few of our ships [illegible] able to compete with them particularly in heavy weather She will [illegible] ships of much later construction She is at present loading in the [illegible] beautiful order

Keene Buys a Country Seat

NEW YORK Aug 9—It is said that James R Keene has purchased the country seat of [illegible] Barrett at Glen Cove on Long Island Sound paying $38 000 It was many years the property of Barrett the actor who spent a large [illegible] to beautify it
